Defense Sidetracked
Russia Will Nurse Babies
Prosperous Ireland
Mexican Vengeance

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS are said to have "sidetracked" the naval construction program of $74,000,000 after discussion and risk of a party session.

The program would have provided one aircraft carrier, to cost, with armor, ammunition and machinery, $27,650,000; also one light cruiser, with 36 airplanes, costing $20,780,000; four submarines, costing $17,600,000, and 130 airplanes, $5,000,000, plus $3,000,000 for experimenting with Diesel engines.

That would have been strictly necessary for defense, but it is abandoned to save the country from another session of its legislators.

On the other hand, your wise statesmen actually propose to spend $30,000,000 to "modernize" the battleships—New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho.

Even when they are modernized they will simply be nothing but targets for bombing planes and pleasant shooting-decks for naval officers too old to accept a new idea.

SOMETIMES consumptive patients have bright pink spots on their cheek, deceitful telling of hope to be fulfilled.

Down on Wall street had a bright pink spot on each cheek, and looked remarkably well. Prices went up from $2 to $15 a share. Stocks bought and sold more than twice as nearly four times as many shares as the same day of the previous year.

Hope springs eternal in the stock market, but nobody knows whether it is the pink spot of health or of raging financial tuberculosis.

IN CONNECTION with Russia's plan to conscript women for industry, government taking care of babies while their mothers are at work, you read that this is partly because of "the present serious shortage of labor in Russia."

Even when we had that shortage in mind and wonder how the Russians manage it.

Russia's plan to open gigantic permanent nurseries to care for babies while mothers are working in mills, forests, fields, mines or factories will present problems that even Stalin can foresee. Separating women from their babies may be a dangerous experiment, even in Russia.

IT IS PLEASANT to hear of any one's happiness, and you will be pleased to know that Ireland is really prosperous, "riding the storm of world depression." In 1930 the Irish exported more than $300,000,000 of goods, which is better than merely shipping money to British landlords. Irish banks are strong, the Irish Free State currency is sound. Those that used to say "the Irish can govern anybody but themselves" may have been mistaken.

CHEMICAL GAS INJURES FOUR AT OHIO STATE

University Instructor Seriously Burned as Liquid Bromine Is Released.

3 STUDENTS OVERCOME

More Than 400 Forced To Flee Chemical Building Because of Fumes.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10 — An Ohio state university instructor was burned seriously and three students were overcome by fumes today when a five-pound bottle of liquid bromine exploded in the chemistry laboratory.

Clarence Bremer, of Hollins, Mich., graduate assistant in chemistry, was burned on the legs and hands when he dropped the bottle. The students who were overcome are Miss Ruth Dwyer and Leo Genung of Columbus and Claude Schmitt of Toledo. The four were taken to a hospital.

Hundreds Flee

More than 400 students in the chemistry building were forced to flee to the open air when the fumes filtered through the structure.

Chemists said the fumes somewhat resembled the death dealing gases which swept through the Cleveland clinic in the disaster there. The same type of gas fumes were used during the world war, it was added, and while not instantly fatal, often resulted in bronchial pneumonia.

Chaos reigned on the campus as the fleeing students scattered, and as ambulance from the nearby university hospital sped to the chemistry building.

Condition Serious

Doctors termed Bremer's injuries severe and dangerous.

Experts said several hours would be required to make the structure safe for occupancy. Contra-actives to the gas were being spread through the building soon after the gas filled it.

In addition to the burns, Bremer suffered lung and heart trouble, caused by the gas.

LAND FIRM OFFERS 4 ACRES FOR PARK

Vernon Heights Wants City To Take Over Tract in New Addition.

City council today is considering the advisability of accepting a gift of five acres of land to be added to the city park system. The offer was made last night by the Vernon Heights Realty Co.

The largest single tract offered the city lies at the curve in Vernon Heights boulevard and is made up of a four-acre plot. Two smaller tracts, one at Courtland avenue and East Walnut street and the other at King avenue, are also included in the offer.

Provision for these parks was made when Vernon Heights was plotted, but up to this time the formal step of presenting them to the city was never made, R. T. Lewis of the Vernon Heights Realty Co., and Hoke Donithen, attorney, explained last night.

It is the hope of the company that the four-acre tract can eventually be made into a playground and beauty spot, Mr. Lewis said.

The city park system now consists of three major parks, McKinley, Lincoln and Garfield parks, and a number of small beauty spots at different places in the southern section of the city.

Farmer Loses Second Tilt With Robbers in 30 Days

After robbing him of $23, three armed Negroes locked Malcolm Severns of Milisor road in a dog kennel on his farm five miles south of here last night. It was Severns' second experience with robbers in a month.

The three Negroes accosted Severns as he approached his garage last night to repair an automobile fuse. One threatened him with a revolver while the others went through his pockets. They obtained $23 in money, some papers and his flashlight. They marched him to the dog kennel and locked him in.

Twenty minutes later his cries aroused his wife, who freed him from the kennel. The Negroes are believed to have traveled across the fields to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks to escape on a freight train.

Four weeks ago, Severns returned to his home one night just in time to intercept a raid on his chickens. One of two men attempting to take his chickens knocked him down.

City police, officials of the sheriff's office and railroad detectives made an extensive hunt for the men last night. Authorities in surrounding cities have been asked to be on the lookout for the Negroes.

CHILD LABOR BILL SUBMITTED AGAIN

Measure To Regulate Working Hours Turned Down Six Years Ago.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10—The federal child labor amendment, turned down by the Ohio legislature six years ago, was again before the assembly for ratification today. Approval was proposed, last night, by Senator James A. Reynolds, Democrat of Cleveland.

The federal amendment first was proposed to the Ohio assembly for ratification in 1925.

The amendment seeks to give congress the authority to enact laws regulating the employment of minors under 18 years of age. Most of the northern states have drastic child labor laws, including Ohio, but the federal government has no authority to enact regulatory laws on the subject. Thirty-six states must ratify before it becomes effective.

The house also was constitutional minded and received a resolution petitioning congress to call a national constitutional convention to consider repeal of the 18th amendment.

Investigation of distribution of receipts received from the four-cent gasoline tax was proposed by Representative Charles Justice, Democrat of Columbus, in a resolution offered in the house. A bill calling for abolition of capital punishment in Ohio, was introduced by Senator Yoder, it would provide lime imprisonment for all offenses now subject to the death penalty.

INDUSTRY EMPLOYING 1,000 SOUGHT HERE

C. of C. Offers Tract of Land to Eastern Concern Planning To Move.

Efforts to induce a nationally-known eastern industry to move to Marion will be made within the next few days by a Chamber of Commerce committee, President Hoke Donithen said today when he learned that the company is seeking to locate in the middle west.

The company, which employs 1,000 persons, wants to move to either Ohio, Indiana, Illinois or Michigan where they will have better labor conditions, lower taxes and cheaper electricity rates, Donithen understands.

Donithen and his committee will offer the concern a 25-acre site just outside of Marion if the company will move here, he said. The site will be gratis if the concern decides to come to Marion.

The president would not say today what type of an industry the concern in question is, nor where the company now is located.

Advantages of Marion as a center of the industrial market, its excellent railroad facilities and high-class labor market will be stressed by the committee, which plans to make the trip east to extend the invitation to the company to come here.

TAXPAYERS GIVEN FOURTH EXTENSION

Shelton Grants 10 Days' More for Collection To Avoid Delinquencies.

A fourth extension of time for the payment of taxes was granted today by County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton, who set Feb. 20 as the deadline.

The third time extension which started Feb. 1 ended today.

A total of $778,449.92 had been collected at the close of business yesterday, but this figure was expected to pass the $800,000 mark today. Yesterday's collection amounted to $11,987.26.

A year ago yesterday the collection totaled $921,694.91, but this represented seven days more of collections. The average daily receipts this year is $18,500 as compared to $18,800 last year, Shelton's figures show.

COMMUNISTS HALTED IN VISIT TO CONGRESS

Protest When Refused To Appear in House with Petition for Unemployed.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—A delegation of Communists who marched peacefully to the capitol today remained to argue with representatives and house attaches after they were refused permission to appear on the house floor.

Fifteen Communists today came to present a petition to congress and were directed to proceed through the regular channels and deposit their document with the sergeant of arms of the house.

The committee went up Capitol hill in a double file and were met at the front door by police who escorted them to the office of Sergeant-at-Arms Rodgers. He informed them that he was representing Speaker Longworth and would receive any petition they wished to present. Their leaders objected to this.

"We feel," said one of the spokesmen, "that there has been a lot of dilly dallying about unemployment relief up here. We were elected by unemployed as their representatives and directed to present to congress a petition asking immediate action."

DAISY DE BOE MUST SERVE TERM IN JAIL

Placed on Probation for Rest of Five-Year Prison Sentence.

COURTHOUSE IS THRONGED

Hear Clara Bow's Secretary Sentenced and Told She "Had Fair Trial."

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 10—Daisy DeBoe, former secretary of Clara Bow, film actress, was granted probation from a prison term by Judge William Doran today, but she must spend 18 months in the county jail. The remainder of a five-year period she will be at liberty under supervision of the county probation officer.

The court's decision was prefaced by a request from Miss DeBoe's counsel that she be permitted to withdraw her application for probation made on Feb. 2, following her conviction nearly three weeks ago on charges of stealing $825 from Miss Bow.

Miss DeBoe stood firmly and looked intently at the court as Judge Doran announced his decision. After the court had told her she would not have to serve a possible prison term of one to ten years she looked at her attorney William Behrne for an instant and then apparently resigning herself to the court's judgment, she walked from the courtroom to begin her term in the county jail. No attempt was made to appeal the motion for a trial, denied a week ago.

Large Crowd Present

One of the largest throngs seen during the De Boe case was attracted to the courthouse.

In leading up to his decision, Judge Doran told Miss De Boe, "you conducted systematic raids on the funds of Miss Bow for some length of time."

The original charges against the former secretary accused her of stealing $10,000 from the actress over a period of nearly a year and a half.

"You are given a good position at a substantial salary and entrusted with funds," Judge Doran said.

"You not only committed embezzlement but you were guilty of a breach of trust. There are no extenuating circumstances in connection with your offense.

"The jury was quite generous with you. Their verdict found you guilty of only one of the 37 counts of grand theft charged against you. The evidence was sufficient to support a conviction on all counts.

"You were ably represented and all of your rights protected; you had a fair and impartial trial.

"You never have been in trouble before but your case should be made an example for others."

The sentence was given and Miss DeBoe walked out of the court room and back to her jail cell.

A Big Week

(Will Rogers Special)

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 10—Say that Tulsa is a bear. We played there last night to exactly $30,000 at one single performance, making $100,000 the state of Oklahoma paid in the one week.

It wasn't the attraction, it was the cause. These people down in these states know that there is folks that are hungry, and they are going to feed 'em as long as they are able.

And say, they do a great gag down here; they don't just open up a soup kitchen and feed a lot of professional bums, they make 'em work, and then give 'em the money to buy some food.

Played my wife's town, Rogers, Ark., today, and Fort Smith tonight. Yours,

Will Rogers.

MAN HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

Alleged Radio Game Brings Arrest of Man in Washington C. H.

OBTAINED SETS ON TRIAL

Two Marion Merchants Said To Be Victims; Cincinnatian Detained.

Washington C. H. authorities today are holding a man who gave his name as Byron Rose, 27, of Newstonville, in connection with the investigation of a confidence game used to victimize merchants of Marion and several other Ohio cities.

The merchants Rose is said to have victimized here, traveling under the name of J. J. Madison, are the Standard Home Utilities and the Monarch Printing Co.

Gets Two Sets Here

Local merchants have identified Rose as the man who obtained two radios in this city by having them set in "on approval" and who is alleged to have suddenly left the city with the instruments.

Pretending to establish a residence on Pearl street, he and a woman not only left the merchants defrauded of their radios but also took some bedclothing from their rented quarters, authorities say.

Police say 18 radios stolen in Ohio and Indiana had been purchased by Max Frank, 32, proprietor of a Cincinnati resale store, from Rose, who is now held on a theft charge. Frank told police Rose represented himself as a radio dealer, and sold the sets at only third the market value.

Hold Man as Accomplice

Rose, according to information received here, has posed as a representative of various concerns and has given a variety of excuses in the different cities where he has temporarily located. In each instance he obtained the radio on approval with no payment or a small down payment.

Local merchants say both Rose and the woman he introduced as his wife were well dressed. Police are not holding the woman.

Frank is being held in Cincinnati on a charge of receiving stolen property. Persons who bought the stolen radios from Frank face the prospect of having the instruments confiscated.

OFFICIALS CONCERNED OVER CHILD'S DEATH

Coroner Reports 14-Months-Old Lima Girl Died of Improper Food.

By International News Service.

LIMA, O., Feb. 10—The death of 14-month-old Dorothy Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones, of this city, caused some concern to city officials today following the announcement of Coroner Frank Smith that the baby died from exhaustion due to malnutrition.

"Death probably came of improper food over a period of time rather than an insufficient amount of food," Coroner Smith said today.

The baby was one of five children in a family living in the so-called "poor section" of Lima, which has been trying to subsist on an allowance of $5 per week, according to Smith.

Reports were that the father had appealed to various relief agencies for aid but had been denied it because he had part-time employment. These reports were being investigated by city authorities and residents of the city came to the immediate aid of the family and supplied food and clothing.

Find Evidences of Incendiarism in Ruins

By International News Service.

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 10—Two clues indicating incendiarism were followed today as investigators poked about the ruins of the Oakland horse show stables where four men and 80 blueblooded horses died in a spectacular fire.

The horses burned, many of them champions and all of them prize winners, were valued at $500,000. Bodies of the four men who died have been recovered.

Although police said that evidence pointed to incendiarism show officials voiced the belief that a carelessly thrown cigaret had ignited the straw.

DISCOVERY OF WEAPON NEW CLUE IN PROBE

Believed To Have Been One of Two Used in Potter Slaying.

RELEASE TWO SUSPECTS

Hunt Continues for Young Blond Woman Seen in Death Apartment.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 10—A blood stained revolver with strands of hair caught in its handle—the weapon which police said was used in the mysterious slaying of former Councilman William E. Potter, today gave detectives an important new clue in the killing.

It was found in the street not far from the apartment where the councilman's body was found Sunday night, on the eve of his fourth scheduled trial in connection with Cleveland's notorious playground scandal.

Clue from Taxi Driver

Another important clue was developed when police located a taxi driver who said he drove a man and a woman to the apartment shortly before the killing. His passengers, he said, answered the description of the "blond young woman" and the "M. J. Marcus" who rented the place, and who police said arranged the plot to lure Potter there to be killed.

The actual shooting, detectives said, probably was done by professional killers.

The bloody revolver was found by a citizen several days ago and since then had been kept in the home of Patrolman Harry Mizer, to whom the citizen had given it. Patrolman Mizer failed to report possession of the weapon until the citizen told detectives about it. The detectives then found it in Mizer's home.

Positive Identification

There is no doubt it was the weapon used to slay the former councilman, the officer said. It is a .38 caliber Colt, of a model not manufactured in the last 10 years and for that reason its ownership may be difficult to trace. Four unexploded cartridges were found in the gun but no empty shells.

Potter was killed by a .38 calibre bullet and also had been struck on the head by some weapon which crushed his skull.

Links Two With Slaying

The discovery of the gun came as investigators were inclined to believe there were two men in the killing. City and county detectives received information that two men were seen last Tuesday entering the furnished apartment where the body of the former councilman was found Sunday night. Queen Esther Morgan, a 17-year-old high school student who lives in the building, said she saw a man go in and out of the house that day, when Potter was believed to have been killed. Another man answering the description of the "mysterious "M. J. Markus" who rented the death suite, was seen in the building by Mark Huston, a caller on Miss Morgan.

These clues tallied with the discovery of D. L. Cowles, police ballistics expert, that two different guns were used in the slaying. A .38 caliber bullet passed through Potter's head, while a .32 caliber bullet was found embedded in the wall.

Two Suspects Released

A young blond woman also seen in the apartment last Tuesday by a neighbor was still being sought. A woman and her husband were arrested as suspects yesterday, but were released a short time later.

Investigators believe Potter was decoyed to the apartment by the woman and shot down to insure his silence about the city land deals. He was to have gone on trial yesterday on a perjury charge resulting from his testimony in three previous trials in which he was acquitted.

Detective Inspector Cornelius W. Cody said he was seriously considering going to Columbus to interview Liston G. Schooley, also a former councilman, and his son, Liston, Jr., who pleaded guilty to profiting in the purchase of a playground site and twice have refused to tell a grand jury details of the deal. The younger Schooley was to have been paroled yesterday, but the parole was rescinded pending investigation of Potter's murder.

How to Escape FLU

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.

3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.

4 Above all, avoid catching colds. They lower your resistance to the flu germ. Ward them off. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. If you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this will relieve the soreness and reduce the inflammation.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

SPECIAL TAX GROUP SELECTS OFFICERS

Ohio Legislature's Committee Organizes After Meeting Governor.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10—The special taxation sub-committee of the Ohio general assembly, made up of six senators and representatives, organized today by naming Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican of Cincinnati, as chairman and Clarence H. Burke, Democrat of Huron county, secretary.

The committee named three members—Burke, Representative Earl L Johnson, Republican of Lake county, and Senator Frank E. Whittemore, Republican of Akron, to arrange for offices for the committee and to employ counsel and experts on taxation to advise with the committee.

Confer with Governor

Asked by Senator Taft if he intended naming three additional members of the body, as provided in the assembly resolution, White replied in the negative. Taft had said "I assume you will not appoint the three members of the committee," and the governor replied "your assumption is correct."

In an informal discussion with the governor and committeemen, it was indicated the committee would have to receive two more reports before it could get down to actual work. Taft said it was the hope of the committee to have something tangible by April 1, and that as soon as possible a tentative program would be submitted to the house and senate for hearings.

Senator William A. Greenlund, Democrat of Cleveland, told the governor that the spirit of the committee was one of cooperation and that they would strive to obtain tax legislation equal to all. Taft added that the committee would see a program which would meet with the approval of the cities, the rural districts, the governor and the legislature.

The committee will immediately begin hearings on taxation proposals under the classification tax amendment to the state constitution adopted by the voters in 1929.

"I Don't Feel Just Right, Doc"

(The Common Way of Describing Acidity)

You're not sick, yet not well. Your stomach isn't just right, you don't sleep well and you tire easily. Your color isn't what it should be and you probably look drawn. A sort of vague, run-down feeling is one of the first symptoms of acidity. Acidity not only causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning, but sets up poisons which sap strength and vitality and makes us feel physically and mentally low.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesio Oxoids generate nascent, or active oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test

To see just how "acid" you are make this test Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.—Adv.

VICTORY FORECAST

Relief Compromise to Get Approval, Is Belief in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 — The opposition had the first inning today in the senate's consideration of the relief compromise agreement but supporters of the plan were confident they would win approval by tonight or tomorrow.

Senator LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, had the floor for an attack on the proposal to appropriate $20,000,000 for "farm rehabilitation" loans, but the membership which heard him did not appear to be the wavering group which for a time yesterday was near a bolt from the agreement between leaders of the administration and of the various groups in congress.

To the letter written by President Hoover to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, yesterday, giving assurance of sympathetic administration of the loan fund, and to the Democratic leader's presentation of the issues at stake, many senators credited a solidifying of sentiment for the compromise. The latter is planned to supplant a number of relief projects.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER REPORT

Controversy Expected Over Question of Railroad Consolidation Advisability.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—Members of the senate interstate commerce committee expected a controversy today as they met to consider a report questioning the advisability of further railroad consolidations.

The report, drafted by William C Green, the committee's counsel, after a six-months investigation, has direct bearing on the proposed four-way consolidation of eastern railroads, negotiations for which were sponsored by President Hoover.

Committee members have split into two groups over Green's conclusion that a study of the records, hearings and experiences of the last 19 years "does not disclose a situation requiring in the public interest further encouragement of a comprehensive program of consolidations as required by the transportation act."

Republican and Democratic independents of the committee were expected to urge adoption of the report.

Among the other conclusions reached by Green, expected to bring out differences were:

"That the greatest benefits of consolidations now contemplated will accrue to lines already strong, who are seeking to acquire other strong lines and thus build up their systems, rather than to take in weak lines.

"That such a program of consolidation may tend to further weaken weak lines through closing of routes and withdrawal of traffic.

The days when she played tragedy are a thing of the past and her "sad" face and voice have become a part of her, insofar as audiences are concerned.

CITY TO TAKE BIDS ON AIRPORT LEASE

Failure of Sycamore Concern To Pay Rental Brings Action by Council.

Lease of Marion Airport, held by the Sycamore Airport Co., was declared forfeited by a resolution of city council last night, and Service Director D. J. Harlow was authorized to advertise for bids on a new lease.

The forfeiture was ordered when the company failed to meet quarterly rental fees of $125.

Last March 20 the airport was leased to M. I. Glazier, who later assigned the lease to the Sycamore Airport Co. After paying $250 on the lease, the company withdrew its men from the port and fell in arrears in payments.

Several persons are said to be interested in leasing the port for the coming year. Service Director Harlow will receive bids for a one-year lease of the port.

BASEBALL COMMISSION STARTS 1931 WORK

MOGULS OF DIAMOND NAME MARCH 2 FOR BANQUET THIS YEAR

By-Laws Changed To Provide New Length of Terms for Board Members.

THE first definite move towards the opening of recreational baseball in Marion was taken last night in the Y. M. C. A. as the city baseball commission convened there for the first time this year. Nine of the 12 members of the group were present.

Headlining the work accomplished by the commission last night was the setting of a date for the annual spring banquet of baseball devotees of the city. Instead of holding the event this year in April as has been the case in former years, the commission named Monday, March 2 as the date for the affair. No place was provided for the affair but a committee consisting of Leo Keller, T. M. Cunningham and Elmer Shaw was appointed to complete arrangements.

Although the banquet will probably hold more interest right at present for the majority of baseball players in town, a change in the by-laws, made by the commission last night, may have more to do with the future of baseball in Marion. Acting on repeated suggestions from interested individuals the commission unanimously voted to elect the incoming commission in the future, starting this year, on a basis of three, two and one year terms. The four members of the newly elected group will serve three years, the next high four will serve two years and the remaining four a single year. It is believed this plan will eliminate a possibility of having an entirely new commission elected in any particular year, a condition it is feared by officials might be detrimental to the sport here.

The treasurer of the commission, Roy Waddell reported a balance of $704 in the treasury.

The commission named a committee composed of Anson Pickerel, Ray G. Smallwood and W. N Harder for the nominating of candidates for the incoming commission.

Complete arrangements for the annual baseball banquet and meeting will be published as soon as they are completed.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

ACCORDING to those persons who wield the scepters of power in the Sunday school basketball and baseball leagues of Marion, church athletics are conducted here for a dual purpose. The first idea is to get new members attending Sunday schools. The second is to keep the ones attending whose names are already on the books.

As far as the above stated plan is concerned I am wholly in favor of it. The purpose is fine. However, just at present I'm not particularly interested in the purpose. I'm looking at the results. Perhaps I should say the lack of results.

• • •

Sunday school baseball and basketball in Marion are growing by leaps and bounds, both in player and spectator interest. But there is one colossal error in the situation as it now exists. Sunday school members are not doing nearly all of the playing. The names of all the competitors may be on the books but in a large number of instances that is as far as Sunday school attendance goes.

• • •

Whether the rulers of basketball and baseball in Marion are too blind to recognize the obvious infractions of the present regulations or whether they are willing to sit by and wink at the violations of eligibility rules you can decide for yourself. It doesn't make much difference which you take.

It is too late to remedy the basketball situation this year. The season is too nearly finished. But baseball is coming on and is badly in need of some cleaning up. (There I go reforming again). It is rapidly approcahing the point, under existing rules, where all that is necessary to play with certain Sunday school teams in Marion is to be acquainted with the manager. Sunday school attendance is secondary.

• • •

Of course the rulers of the sports are always assured that the competitors are bona fide members of the Sunday school for which they are playing but unfortunately it seems they are not. If the true attendance records of all the Sunday schools in town which supported baseball teams last summer were examined it is quite probable that some disconcerting relevations would be made.

• • •

Harking back to basketball again, the same situation is found to exist, possibly to a greater extent than in baseball. A large number of players are technically members of the Sunday school for which they are playing. Some really attend regularly. A large number do not. But still they continue to dot the lineups in the Tuesday and Saturday night games. If the Sunday school commission will check up they will discover games played in which the majority of members of at least one team are ineligible.

The violating of eligibility rules has gone too far in Marion now for the good of basketball and baseball. It can still be curbed however, and without injuring the games, if some stringent regulations are adopted before another season rolls into being.

• • •

Here is one suggestion for baseball. It is just as easily applicable for basketball. It may or may not be adopted. I don't particularly care. Maybe it will pave the way for a better plan. The plan would work no particular hardship on anyone although it will require some extra effort on the part of church officials and team managers.

• • •

Require the managers of all teams in Sunday school competition to furnish to the secretary of the ruling board a certified list of attendants at Sunday school for each week, the list to be in the hands of the secretary on Monday of each week. The list should be signed by the pastor, class teacher and team manager. A triple check is thus provided that is not likely to allow ineligible players to get into the list. These attendance lists should be available to the team managers of all teams in the circuits.

• • •

Some kind of penalty other than the mere forfeiture of a single game might be adopted. A period of suspension would cause a team manager to think twice before trying to win a game with an ineligible pinch hitter.

Now that the sermon is completed I am ready to receive the chorus of hisses and boos and incidentally to receive any comments, pro or con on the subject. We will now stand and be dismissed.

JOE SHIMKUS VICTOR OVER ROBINSON IN ROUGHHOUSE MATCH

"Break-It-Off" Club Members Put on Good Show in Shovel Gym.

BY KARL R. McELROY.

GOSH, I'm still out of breath! And it's all because of that wrestling match at the Steam Shovel gym last night in which Clyde Robinson of St. Louis met the Boston bean boy, Joe Shimkus. Shimkus knew his beans and defeated Robinson.

It was the roughest match which has been put on here in a good many days. Even "Gentle John" Kilonis would turn away in shame after watching those two boys work.

Robinson won the first fall in 19 minutes after butting and slugging Shimkus all over the ring. The match kept fans in a constant uproar. Shimkus came back to take the second in 20 minutes with a arm and hammer lock.

Robinson's arm received considerable punishment in the second fall and he did not last long in the third which Shimkus took in three minutes with a hammer lock. It was one of the most breath taking finishes seen here in a good many moons.

"Tiger" McKee of Louisville, Ky., was not so tough when he faced Joe Campbell in the semi-final match. He lasted just 16 minutes before being pinned by an arm stretch. Campbell looked plenty sweet in keeping his record this year undefeated.

Farmer Bell of Delaware won a 20-minute decision over Pete Dando of Columbus Bell, although outweighed several pounds by Dando, had no trouble disposing of his man.

OHIO CONFERENCE TO SHORTEN CAGE SKED

Teams Limited to 18 Games Next Season; Practice Opening Set Back.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10—Ohio conference basketball teams will be limited to 18 games next season and only 15 in 1932-33 under plans to lessen the alleged over-emphasis in college sports.

The abbreviated schedules were drawn up by conference managers at a meeting here yesterday but the dates will not be announced until later. The managers engaged in a lively discussion over the shortened schedules which were approved, after a vote showed that a majority believed some schools had placed too much stress in the cage game.

The managers also voted to bar coaches from assembling their teams earlier than the first Monday after Thanksgiving and to prohibit pre-season and holiday barnstorming trips during which many teams have played industrial and commercial schools. Post-season games also were disapproved.

Still Confident of "Fence Busting" Ability

Here they are. Babe and Hack, all set, so they contend, to continue clouting the horsehide all over the parks of major league ball clubs. Neither is in the least worried about the prospects of not being able to hit the new ball. Counter-sunk stitches or not, both of them maintain they will be cluttering the bleachers with baseballs all next summer. Maybe they will.

Princeton Ready To Again Book Harvard

By The Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 10 — Princeton is perfectly willing and ready to renew athletic relations with Harvard in every sport but football, says Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the Princeton board of athletic control.

"The recent spontaneous and definite expressions of undergraduate opinion of Harvard and Princeton favoring resumption of athletic competition leaves no doubt as to their cordial sincerity," Dr. Kennedy says, "but the undergraduate view at Princeton recognizes that there still exist important differences of policy in football which would militate against resumption of that sport at the present time."

For the first time championship belts will be awarded the winners in the Metropolitan Association A A U bouts at Madison Square Garden, January 12 and 14.

French Champion Beaten In American Track Debut

By The Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 10—The American debut of Paul Keller, French 800-meter champion, has proved no more of a success than that of his compatriot, Scrappin Martin, world's record holder, at the same distance.

Keller, with no previous experience in running indoors or on an unbanked track, finished fourth in a special 1,000 yards event in the Seton hall college games here last night.

Lacking knowledge of how to handle himself on the turns where he was badly jostled and handicapped in addition by an injury to his right foot, the Frenchman never was a contender in the race which Phil Edwards, Hamilton, Ont., Negro, won in the fast time of 2:17 9-10. Frank Nordell, New York university freshman, was second and Charlie Thompson of New York, third.

In an early jam the nail on the big toe of Keller's right foot was ripped off and the Frenchman was limping badly at the finish. The injury was painful but not serious and Keller will go through with the balance of his engagements in this country.

Bill Bruder, Newark A. C. dash man, conquered Ira Singer, New York University, and Leigh Miller of Canada, in all three races of the sprint series; Bernie McCafferty, Holy Cross quarter miler, ran the waldron 600 yards in 1:14 4-10 to beat Eddie Roll, Newark A. C.

"Old Jack Quinn" Has No Intention of Quitting Baseball.

By The Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 10—"Old Jack Quinn isn't old and he has no intention of quitting baseball.

The ex-Philadelphia twirler relieved himself of this observation as he prepared to foot it over the mountains to get in trim for the season. He holds no brief for the golf playing ball player.

Quinn is now a free agent, released by the Athletics after six seasons with them, but he says, "42 doesn't make me an old man."

After a two-weeks period of conditioning here, Quinn intends to make the rounds of southern training camps with an eye out for a berth on somebody's ball team.

Moskin Five Drubbed by Green Camp Baptists

The Moskin Clothier basketball team was handed a first class drubbing last night by the Green Camp Baptist church team on the Green Camp floor last night, the locals losing 43 to 20. The Marion team never had a chance against the Baptists, the church team holding a wide advantage throughout the game.

Northwestern In Lead as Big 10 Enters Stretch

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—Western conference basketball had reached the halfway point today, and Northwestern, co-holder with Michigan of the 1930 football title, was on top, almost beyond reach of the pack.

The Wildcats last night thrust back the challenge of Minnesota, whipping the Gophers, 35 to 26, at Evanston. The triumph gave Northwestern six straight victories, and dropped Minnesota from undisputed possession of second place, to a tie with Indiana. Indiana did its part by walloping Iowa, 31 to 18, at Bloomington.

Wisconsin, with an almost entirely reorganized five, smothered Washington university of St. Louis, 39 to 9, at Madison.

Purdue tonight has a chance to hop from fifth place to third, by defeating Illinois at Champaign tonight.

ZUPPKE STANDS PAT ON PRESENT RULES OF FOOTBALL GAME

Illinois Grid Mentor Believes Few Changes Will Be Made by Committee.

By The Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 10—The shift will not be an issue, and there will be no radical alteration of football rules, was the belief of Coach Bob Zuppke of the University of Illinois, as he headed for Absecon, N. J., today to attend the annual meeting of the rules committee.

"Coaches feed generally that the present rule satisfactorily governs the shift," Zuppke, who is a member of the advisory committee, said, "and most of them think the rules should be left alone.

"I believe the general committee shares this feeling. It is likely that whatever changes are made will be in the nature of clarifying present rules.

"The committee on rules, of the coaches' association, based its report to the annual meeting on a questionnaire sent to coaches generally.

"One hundred eighty-two favored retention of the point after touchdown, while 89 favored abandoning it. More than 200 coaches favored removing the power of officials to award or to take away a point after touchdown for infraction of rules and that the penalty provided should be enforced."

Yank Business Manager Admits Several Players Not Signed.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Ed Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees, has abandoned his dignified silence long enough to say that six Yankees have not yet come to terms.

He declined to reveal who they were but by process of elimination news gatherers decided upon Lou Gehrig and Lynn Lary, infielders; Herb Pennock, Lou McEvoy and Frank Barnes, pitchers; and Fred Walker, outfielder.

The New York Giants, however, still maintain their policy of declining to say who has and who has not signed. The only acknowledged hold-out, is Bill Terry, clouting first baseman.

NO CARS FOR SOX

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 — Among the things members of the Chicago White Sox squad will not do during the training season will be driving automobiles. Manager Donie Bush today placed a ban on automobiles with the comment that he "hunted baseball players all over Texas last year on jumps from the scene of one exhibition game to another. This year the boys will do their going and coming by rail.

GEE, IT LOOKS GRAND — YOU SURE CAN SHINGLE FAST!
THAT'S ALL I CAN DO — YOU JUST WATCH ME FIXING THE WINDOWS
I ONLY WISH I HAD SOME PAINT — AND TO SHOW YOU HOW I CAN PAINT AS GOOD AS A REGULAR PAINTER
MY STARS, HOW THAT BOY CAN WORK — WHEN HE SETS HIS MIND ON IT
DON'T IT LOOK GRAND? — IT JUST SHOWS UNCLE TEDDY FLYNN WAS RIGHT WHEN HE SAID, "THE WORLD OWES US ALL A LIVING — BUT WE'VE GOT TO DO SOME OWN COLLECTING!"

SHARE PRICES MOVE HIGHER

Advances After Temporary Breathing Spell in Morning.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK Feb. 10—The sudden flare of optimism in Wall Street, governed the speculative market today as stocks pushed further into new territory for the recovery. After a breathing spell in the morning, bonds were in good demand, better prices. Such important commodities as wheat and copper and silver also shared in the wave of good cheer over the unfilled tonnage report for the month of January, disclosed a sharp increase in bookings of new business had been expected, to stimulate the better

The progress of share prices was attended by violent gyrations in some of the active issues. Auburn added 20 points to yesterday's advance of nearly 19, and Case surged 15 points. The market sold off sharply after a furious first half hour rending, but after midday, with the tonnage report, and bullish declarations in the rails, which followed yesterday, kept the market in the uphill track.

The total of 188,755 tons in U. S. Steel was in contrast to the unofficial estimates heard during the past week, ranging from a low of 100,000 tons to a high of 250,000 tons. It was at more than the more optimistic estimations, and the best figure since 1928. It was pointed out, however, that the current level of operations sometimes discounted its significance.

Generally cheering to Wall Street was the better action of the foreign markets. The wheat market, with the large holdings of the Farm board organization, gave rise to numerous expressions of concern of late, so the sharp advances of wheat prices at Chicago and Winnipeg, the best prices in weeks were regarded did much to aid speculative confidence.

In the main, the violent upswing lacked positive developments in industrial or trade conditions to back it up, and it was generally regarded as primarily a technical correction of an oversold condition.

MEAT, LARD STOLEN

Thieves Loot Cellar of Ed Hoch of Near Waldo.

Theft of meat and lard from the cellar of Ed Hoch of near Waldo was reported to Sheriff Charles C. Fye last night when Hoch discovered the loss of the meat.

The theft is believed to have occurred Saturday night when Hoch and his family were absent from the farm.

The meat consisted of four hams, three shoulders and 18 cans of sausage which had been packed away in lard. The meat and lard had been stored in the cellar only a few days, Hoch having butchered two hogs last week.

Fye and Deputy Sheriff Chester Cosgrove investigated the theft. Imprints in the mud outside the house indicated that two men had committed the burglary.

PROFIT TAKING BRINGS SLUMP

Grain Prices Decline After Strong Opening: Corn Also Drops.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—Profit taking on price bulges turned grains downward early today after fresh upturns. Initial advances were influenced by a steep jump in Liverpool wheat quotations and by stock market buoyancy. Opening unchanged to ¾ cents higher, wheat afterward underwent setbacks to well below yesterday's finish. Corn also started unchanged to ¾ up and subsequently showed losses all around

Tending to offset a sudden rise in Liverpool wheat was the fact that Russia had slashed prices in European continental markets. The Liverpool advance was attributed to temporarily dwarfed stocks there and to inferior quality of immediate supplies, as well as to large flour sales. Attention to record big holdings of wheat in store at Kansas City acted as a handicap to bulls.

Corn failed to receive the aggressive buying support that of late had been conspicuous. Selling from influential sources disclosed that the market at times was almost bare of purchase orders. Messages from other centers noted decided enlargement of rural offerings. Primary receipts too, were increased, totaling 841,000 bushels against 626,000 a week ago. Oats fluctuated with corn and wheat.

Bond Debt in County, Exclusive of City, Totals $2,336,212

Schools Boost Total, Auditor's Report Shows

City Educational Program Responsible for Part of Increase; Townships Also Higher; County To Be Free of Indebtedness in Four Years at Present Rate.

The total bonded indebtedness of Marion county, all villages and townships in the county and all city, village and township schools is $2,336,212 86. The bonded debt of all these districts is shown in a report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1930, filed today by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas to State Auditor Joseph Tracy.

Schools Boost Figure

The increase is due to an expansion of city school facilities in the form of new buildings and the construction of new roads in various townships, Thomas said. In several instances indebtedness was decreased, but the various increases more than offset this drop

The county indebtedness was decreased by more than $100,000 during the year, the figure dropping from $520,975 83 to $108,246.46. Village debts, on the other hand, increased slightly from $55,152 84 to $55 472 73, while township debts jumped from $85,113 43 to $115,737 97

The county will be free of bonded indebtedness by Jan. 1, 1934, if bonds are retired at the present rate, Thomas said today. Last year the debt was reduced by nearly $115,000, and with only $108,246 54 remaining, it will require only three years to pay it off unless additional bonds are issued.

County Schools Lower

Schools throughout the county, with the exception of the city school district, decreased their bonded indebtedness from $461,111 08 to $412,755 62.

The big increase came in the city school district where, due to the new building program, the bonded indebtedness went from $967,000 to $1,344,000 during the year

The county total of $408,246 54 was divided as follows: state aid roads, $131,280; bridges, $21,875; special assessments on county roads, $216.193 91; and ditches, $38,897.63 Village debts, which totaled $55 472.73, were as follows: electric lights, $5,000; street repairs, $21,800; fire departments, $16,319, and special assessments for street repairs, $12 353.73.

Special assessments for roads comprised the greater part of the townships' indebtedness. Their total debt was $115,737.97, of which all but $400 for cemeteries was for roads.

Buildings and sites comprise $699,000 of the city school debt of $1,344,000. Notes totaled $450,000, tuition, $4,000; deficiency relief $10 000, and contingent expenses, $181,000.

Buildings and sites in the county school districts total $397,250 of their total debt which amounts to $312,755 62. Repairs and alterations amounted to $5,500, and deficiency relief totaled $10,005 62

Experiments in France have indicated that 45,000 feet is the limit of altitude aviators can reach in safety if equipped with oxygen and 20,000 feet the safe limit without an oxygen supply.

The Stars Say—

Wednesday, Feb. 11

AN eventful and important day is presaged from the predominant lunar and mutual configurations. Uranus is strong in both aspects, forecasting a sudden change of far-reaching influence, probably bringing radical upheaval in the affairs, plans and environment. This inviting opportunity follows close upon the breaking up of long-congested conditions, making way for constructive and practical effort as well as desired experimentation. There may be fresh contracts and alliances, but also there is danger of dispute and contention. Personal relations may develop along singular lines.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden change or travel, with the affairs rearranged and new opportunities embraced. Splendid openings and conditions of an unforeseen nature should assist in stabilizing the fortunes, but avoid impetuousity and wrangling. Personal affairs will intrigue. A child born on this day should be ingenious, original and independent, but may also be practical and responsible, industrious as well as adventurous.

MAKING ONE DOLLAR DO THE WORK OF TEN

MORE than 80 billion dollars of our annual trade volume represent business transacted on credit. By means of credit the average dollar is made to do the work of ten. This credit fabric is held together by Stock Fire Insurance.

Underlying this vast commercial turnover, serving to give it the stability which credit demands, are the more than 150 billions of dollars the stock companies have at risk against fire, with an almost equal amount covering hail, windstorm, earthquake, and other hazards.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

performs many functions. The principal ones are: 1—Payment of losses; 2—Prevention of fire; 3—Stabilization of credit.

Stock Fire Insurance thus provides a service that makes the uncertain certain; that protects the individual's investments and shields him against disaster; that enables destroyed properties to be replaced.

Why Big Four People are "go-getters"

Every Big Four employee knows this fundamental fact: The prosperity of a railroad is linked with the prosperity of the communities it serves.

The Big Four man or woman, no matter in what department, is proud that he, or she, is working as a member of a great public utility organization in the public service.

That is one big reason why the Big Four, through its employees, is soliciting your business vigorously at every possible opportunity.

Read this letter:

A New England business man wrote to a Big Four yardmaster in answer to a letter soliciting business:

"A man's loyalty to his Company always commands respect, but I think this solicitation for business on your part, where no possible financial remuneration for you is involved—which is even out of your department—is especially commendable. Keep on being a 'Go-Getter'".

Listerine kills dangerous bacteria associated with colds and sore throat

Statistics show that the office worker is the most frequent victim of colds, simple sore throat, and similar infections.

Twice a day he rides in badly ventilated street cars or buses, frequently crowded with coughing people—germs there.

All morning he works in overheated offices, rushes out into the cold to a restaurant filled with others suffering from colds and sore throat—germs there.

Again and again he uses telephones used by others with nose or throat infections—germs there.

Lack of exercise, and exposure to sudden temperature changes weaken body resistance so that germs gain the upper hand.

You can do a great deal to combat colds and sore throat by using full strength Listerine as a gargle. On arising and before retiring. Occasionally during the day if you feel a cold coming on. And certainly at night on returning from work that has probably exposed you to germs.

Reduces mouth germs 98%

Full strength Listerine is fatal to germs of all kinds, including the Streptococcus Hemolyticus, associated with colds and sore throat. Listerine kills germs in the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Yet Listerine is non-poisonous, safe to use in any cavity, and soothing to tissue. Inflamed conditions of the mouth and throat are quickly relieved by it.

Used as a mouth wash, it reduces the bacterial count on the surfaces of the mouth 98%.

Gargle every 2 hours

To maintain a cleanly condition in the mouth, the occasional gargle is sufficient. But when you feel a cold or sore throat coming on, physicians advise that you repeat the gargle every two hours.

Thus you give nature an extra attacking force to fight the swiftly multiplying disease germs breeding in the mouth by millions.

Kiwanians and Wives To Hear Tales of Circus

Francis Beverly Kelley To Address Club Members and Guests Thursday Evening at "Ladies' Night" Party in Marion Club; Speaker Is Delaware Man.

FRANCIS BEVERLY KELLEY

Marion Kiwanians and their wives Thursday night will get a glimpse of the backstage of circus life when they hear Francis Beverly Kelley, who is affiliated with the Barnum and Bailey-Ringling Brothers circus, in an address at the Marion club. The occasion will be one of the "ladies' night" parties sponsored by the club.

Circus life will be the central theme of the party. Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of club members and their guests. Arthur A. VanAtta is chairman of the program committee.

Kelley lives at Delaware where he was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university in 1928. He was president of the student body in his senior year and was prominent in dramatics and debate.

Following his graduation, Kelley spent the summer of 1928 with circuses, gathering material for feature stories. He filled in at various circus jobs in order to get the proper slant on circus life and once was a "barker" for a side show.

Material which Kelley gathered that summer enabled him to write two feature stories for Collier's' the first of which appeared last February and which was titled "Snarling Devils." This article dealt with tigers which, Kelley claimed, are far superior and more ferocious than the lion, so-called "king of beasts."

In his second story Kelley dealt with the elephant. This story, which appeared last summer, was titled "Tons of Temperament."

His work as an advance man for the Barnum and Bailey-Ringling Brothers circus entails frequent appearances at radio stations. Last year he gave a series of talks from WAIU, Columbus, as "Circus Sam."

Kelley last winter was an advance man for debates which featured Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, and prominent preachers, rabbis and priests

Smoking by Co-Eds at Maine U. Moot Question

ORONO, Me.—Co-eds at the University of Maine must continue the practices of slipping behind buildings, down back roads, or into automobiles if they wish to puff on their favorite brands of cigarets, for a query sent out recently to the parents of the students revealed to college authorities an almost equal division of opinion of the question of smoking among the feminine students.

Hence, no decision has been made by college heads and smoking by co-eds remains in the same status as before.

For weeks, the topic of smoking has engaged the attention of the students and the letter columns of the student weekly, "Maine Campus" have been used to air the views of students on the question.

Interviews among the students disclosed that the co-eds who smoke far outnumber those who do not.

It is to be noticed that low-brow magazines need no endowments.

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." IF YOU EVER become well acquainted with a lady named Guillermina Guerrero, or one like her, don't trifle with her affections.

Maximino Aceval did that in Mexico City. Guillermina dressed herself as a boy, found faithless Maximino in a cabaret, dancing with another girl, followed, and shot them both.

An opera like "Cavalleria" or "Pagliacci" represents no exaggeration. The Latin temperament feels everything especially neglect strongly. Those that know say the affections are as violent as the jealously. It must be an exciting life.

'Funeral' Becomes Gay Event as Hatchet Is Buried in Gann-Longworth Conflict

MRS. DOLLY GANN

Famous "Feudists" Exchange Friendly Greetings at Washington Party.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—There was a funeral here last night at which the spectators, decorous ladies all, laughed loud and long. Even Alice Longworth and Mrs. Dolly Gann gave way to mirth

There was a solemn cortege, wearing deepest mourning and carrying a black casket to its resting place, when the first giggles broke through the sombre notes of a funeral dirge. The box was placed under a headstone bearing the simple epitaph:

"Hello Dolly! Hello Alice!"

Contains Feud Symbol

It contained a hatchet—the hatchet, in fact. None other than the symbol of the capital's famous Gann-Longworth feud over social precedence The funeral was conducted by the National Women's Press club. The two principals sat at the same table, guests of honor at the newspaperwomen's merrymaking.

The epitaph celebrated the words with which the feud—which existed in the minds of all social Washingtonians even though the principals never admitted it—was proclaimed ended at a recent White House reception Alice and Dolly met for the first time in ages in the center of the ball room.

"Hello, Dolly!"

"Hello, Alice!"

Joyous Tidings Spread

Of course, everybody heard, and word went forth the controversy was no more.

Incidentally, Mrs Gann came first on the guest list last night, but then it was alphabetical The newspaperwomen gave Mrs. Longworth a Silver wedding anniversary present. It was a framed photograph of the Roosevelt family on Alice's wedding day, Feb. 17, 1906, taken from old newspaper files

4-INCH SNOW COVERS CITY DURING NIGHT

Heaviest Fall of Season Blankets Local Region; To Turn Warmer.

Marion residents awoke this morning to find that a four-inch layer of snow had fallen here between midnight and dawn. This was the heaviest snow of the season here.

The snow, however, was unaccompanied by wind and no drifts were reported. Trains and buses through Marion maintained their schedules without difficulty, according to railroad officials. The snow appeared to be local, trainmen from the north and south having reported that rain, instead of snow, fell in other parts of the state.

Temperatures yesterday ranged from a high of 44 degrees during the day to a low of 24 at midnight. A year ago today the thermometer ranged from a 37 high to 25

Fair weather with a slight drop in temperature was forecast for tonight, but the weatherman predicted warmer temperatures for Wednesday with increasing cloudiness

Pinchot Hits Corrupt Politics in Message to Legislature

By The Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 10—Governor Gifford Pinchot today asked a joint session of the general assembly to enact legislation providing for a thorough investigation of the public service commission, clean elections, unemployment relief and a better system of rural roads.

Asserting fraudulent elections destroy the right of a free people to govern themselves, he launched an attack on the corrupt political machine" which he said had made the city of Philadelphia "more notorious" than any other city in America for election frauds.

He urged passage of legislation to prevent unemployment in the future and recommended enactment of an old age pension act and a measure to relieve small inheritances from any state tax.

"I do not recommend," the governor said, "that the commonwealth shall appropriate money directly for providing food, clothing and shelter for the victims of unemployment."

"We have sin at its worst and Christ at His best in the scene of the cross. The hardest sin to get the people to confess and ask forgiveness is the sin of self-ishness The challenge of the cross is a bigger challenge to enlist in the service of Christ that it is to enlist in the cause for our flag and country."

Another "sensational" duel over in Paris, two news writers being the principals, with the customary result: Both missed.

A New York man asked a magistrate of that city to commit him to prison in order that he might escape the nagging of his wife. Poor devil!

Never before was the country so arrayed against the saloon as at present. Both the drys and the speakeasy-keepers are against it to a man.

"No progress was ever made by passing laws," says Charles G. Norris. Stuff and nonsense! How otherwise would the tea-eaters have secured the fat fate they are enjoying?

The railroads claim that members of congress are unfriendly to them, but in the light of his itinerary they can not successfully establish that charge against the Hon. Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota.

A member of the British house of commons has resigned, having been convicted of having permitted his wife to use his railway pass and fined $157. The idea of sending to the legislative branch of a government a man who hadn't any more sense than to attempt a stunt like that—in England!

Senator George H. Moses says that the motto of the United States has been changed from "E Pluribus Unum" to "Pass the Buck." George should not get the United States confused with the upper house of congress.

Having lost out in his endeavor to force Attorney General Mitchell to recommend to the President the appointment of Ernest Michel to a Minnesota federal judgeship vacancy, Senator Schall, of that state, calls the attorney general a tool of the "power trust." Pretty old stuff, senator. Why not be a good sport and take your medicine?

The Brazilian government has purchased the eleven planes flown across the Atlantic for which it is to pay $43,500 each either in Brazilian currency or coffee. This should give Chairman Legge a pointer. He might be able to make a dicker with Italy and unload some of his wheat.

Philip Harty, a Newark, New Jersey, engineer and his wife are back home from Russia, where he went under a two-year contract at $350 a month. He received the $350 monthly, all right, but when he had to pay $60 for a pair of shoes and six dollars a pound for butter, he concluded that soviet territory was too striking an illustration of that old one to the effect that it's not so much what you take in as what you have to pay out.

The Case of Bishop Cannon.

James Cannon, Jr., so far as the forty-eight charges made against him are concerned, is in position to resume his duties as a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the twelve ministers who acted as an ecclesiastical grand jury having decided that there was not sufficient merit in the charges to warrant a trial on the issues covered by them.

However, the four elders of the denomination who made the charges against the bishop are not satisfied with the finding of the committee, holding that time will show that they were right and that the twelve ministers serving on the committee were wrong.

"My co-signers and myself filed charges against Bishop Cannon after very careful investigation," said one of them following the bishop's exoneration Saturday night. "We did this for the cause of righteousness and the church. We were sure at that time we were right. After we heard the evidence in Washington this week, including some very astonishing admissions by Bishop Cannon, we were doubly sure that we were right. The committee did not vote with us, but time will doubtless reveal their blunder."

The elders may be right in believing that time will demonstrate that the committee blundered. It may, and it may not. Bishop Cannon's errors of judgment were many. He blundered often. But his mistakes were not those which would have attracted widespread criticism had he been merely a layman. It was because of his position in the church that his bucket-shop operations were generally held reprehensible. As for his course in the 1928 presidential campaign, he is far from the only religious zealot who has manifested narrow-mindedness and bigotry. His personal and family affairs held up to public gaze in no pleasing way for months; the target for charges within and without his church organization; discredited as a church official regardless of the committee's finding; broken in health and broken in influence—Bishop Cannon may be regarded by the citizenship of the country generally to have been sufficiently punished, and he may be forgotten.

For Constitutional Government.

Calling parliamentary elections for March 1, King Alfonso has restored constitutional privileges and guarantees to the people of Spain. Thus ends a rule of dictatorships which has endured for seven and a half years.

The royal decree, effective Monday, was not signed by Alfonso under compulsion by threats, but rather in spite of threats, for he has been repeatedly warned that the restoration of constitutional government meant revolution.

The failure of the revolutionary uprising of last December, due to the loyalty of the army to the crown and that of the people of Spain very generally, made manifest to the leaders of the opposition to the king that much propagandizing must be done in Spain to bring public opinion into line with their way of thinking, and they plan to make the utmost of the preelection period to this end, as Premier Berenguer, in announcing the decree, promised that every conceivable guarantee for honest elections without restrictions on freedom of speech. But the enemies of the king take this with a grain of salt. The Socialists, representing the majority of skilled labor; the Republicans, who have the support of ninety per cent of the students and the monarchist enemies of Alfonso, who have been demanding a constitutional assembly, plan to refuse to go to the polls, but they will take advantage of the situation to gain adherents to their campaign against the king, in which they will be aided by many political leaders of all parties seeking personal advancement and the communistic element. The opponents of the government thus expect to overcome the numerical superiority which the combined forces of the Monarchists, the Coservatives and the Liberals at present possess.

What may be the outcome is upon the knees of the gods, but no matter what it may be, it is evident that Alfonso, whose courage has never been questioned, is willing to take the chances the decree entails in the hope of restoring the old-time relations between himself and the 22,000,000 people of Spain. It has been said that Alfonso is as thoroughly tired of dictatorships as his people can possibly be, which is easy of belief, when he has thus demonstrated his willingness to chance his crown to attempt the restoration of constitutional government.

The first-line-of-battle vessels of the United States will number nine March 14, by which time the modernization of the Pennsylvania and Arizona will have been completed. That will help some to bring us closer to our ratio, which is as it should be. What's the advantage to be gained from naval conferences to establish ratios unless we arm up to the ratio established?

A Closed Incident.

Major General Smedley D. Butler is again in command of the marine base at Quantico, Virginia. The general's restoration to command followed his expression of regret for his allusion to Premier Mussolini of Italy in his recent address before the Contemporary club of Philadelphia, a public reprimand by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and the abandonment of the proposed court-martial.

The termination of the episode came as unexpectedly and took the country as much by surprise as the order for the court-martial. Just what influences worked to bring about the denouement is not known. It may have been country-wide expressions of regret that one of the brilliant military record of the general should be ordered to face trial for an expression made with the understanding that any utterance made before the club was to be held sacred and in no way given publicity. It may have been that there was a feeling that a trial might lead to developments which would prove offensive to a friendly power. About all that is positively known is that the Italian ambassador, preceding the annulment of the plan to try the general, gave our state department assurance that the Butler-Mussolini incident was closed and that Italy bore no resentment against either this country or the general. Thus whatever the cause or causes leading up to the outcome, all parties concerned apparently are satisfied with the result.

As the result of a survey made by it, the economics department of the University of California makes the prediction that the small grocery store will soon vanish. Why waste a perfectly good word such as grocery?

Running a decoy advertisement seeking "a handsome, elegant, intelligent young man to accompany a widow, not old, to Italy for the winter," with all expenses paid, the editor of a Bucharest paper got 1,458 replies. We'll say that Bucharest has its fair share of gigolos.

Two gunmen held up an Illinois state highway patrolman, commandeered his car, made him go with them to a garage to secure a wrecking car to get their car from a ditch, find it in shape, and drive away, leaving him stunned with surprise over the $20 tip they gave him. Naturally he wouldn't want to chase after two such generous-hearted fellows as their tip showed them to be.

Thirteen members of two New York City gangs, each including one young woman, have been given prison sentences aggregating 238 years for 150 store robberies and hold-ups. We'll say this for the gangs; they can not be charged with having laid down on their "jobs."

Having refused to name Senator Schall's selection for the federal judgeship vacancy up in Minnesota, President Hoover has suggested to the senator that he name eight or ten "fit" men for the place. But how would the senator know that the selection made by Mr. Hoover would wipe out a political debt—unless, of course, he should be politically indebted to all the "fit" men named by him?

Astronomers of Harvard university announce that Eros appears to be elongated in shape, its longer diameter being from twenty to twenty-five miles and its shorter about ten. The first thing the Harvard scientists know, Mr. Volva, of Zion City, will be citing them as supporting his stand that this old earth of ours is a sort of a glorified pancake.

OLIVER TWIST.

Editorial Opinion.

THE TERRIBLE TURK.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish "republic," abolished the fez and introduced other manifestations of modernity into what was formerly the Ottoman empire, but hangman's news from there indicates that some of the barbaric customs of old still survive. In the cold gray dawn of last Tuesday twenty-seven residents of the old Turkish town of Menemen were executed on the gallows and their lifeless bodies left dangling from the gibbets all day as a warning to other traitors to the "republic."

On the breast of each of the hanged men after execution there was placed a placard on which the words, in Latin characters, "Thus end traitors to Turkey," were inscribed. The victims of the wholesale execution went to their doom in expiation of the crime of attempting to restore the caliphate. Feeble as their effort was, Mustapha Kemal resorted to swift and exemplary punishment of them. It is barely six weeks ago—on December 23—that the outbreak occurred. The particular act of treason for which the rebels of Menemen were hanged was the decapitation of a young army officer who attempted to warn the authorities of the revolt, the aim of which was to protest against Kemal's "western innovations" and advocate the restoration of Islam's "golden age."

Originally thirty-seven persons, religious fanatics of humblest station for the most part, were sentenced to death. The sentences of five were commuted. Two others were ordered to life imprisonment by act of the Turkish parliament. Two, terrified at the thought of the gallows, dropped dead as the hour of execution approached. Sheik Essad, aged ninety-six years, was one of those condemned to be hanged, but he cheated the gallows by dying a natural death in his cell last week. His son, the old priest Ali aged sixty-four, was one of those hanged on February 3. Ali was the oldest of the group of doomed men and their leader after the death of his father. The others were the village tailor, junkman, butcher, candymaker and other tradesmen.

Kemal's henchmen at Menemen overlooked no detail that could add to the hideous terror which they meant the executions to sow throughout all Turkey. Those marked to die were sent to the exact places in the town where each had taken part in the revolt and there they were executed by baggy-trousered Gypsy hangmen. To prevent any possible disorder, the townsfolk, most of whom were relatives or friends of the prisoners, were ordered to remain indoors until after the executions had taken place. All day long the bodies swung in the wind, for the order of execution, approved by the Turkish parliament at Angora, prescribed that they must not be cut down until they had served from dawn to dark as an example for religious reactionaries who might be tempted to follow the example of rebellion.

Mustapha Kemal is one of the dictators who have vaulted into power in Europe since the World war—the conflict waged to "make the world safe for democracy." The legalized massacre of Menemen, reading like a chapter of medieval horror, reminds us that although the result of the armistice was to rewrite the map of Europe and set up "republics" where they had not existed before, it did not usher in everywhere an era of civilization or civilized practices.—Washington Star.

Infantile Paralysis and Adults.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Those who remember the infantile paralysis epidemic of 1916 are naturally alarmed when they hear rumors that this dread disease is once more prevalent. Official figures show, however, that the number of cases so far this year, although greater than for the corresponding period last year, is not abnormally large.

Every year in June or July cases of this disease become more numerous, continuing to increase in frequency until the latter part of September or early October. From that time on, it subsides rapidly and remains at a low level until the next summer.

What makes the disease especially feared by the parents of young children, is the fact that it is so often followed by deformity. There is comfort in knowing that the actual number of cases in proportion to the population is small.

Infantile paralysis does not attack children only. The name would suggest this. It is more common among children, and more fatal among the younger children, but it attacks adults too.

It is an inflammation of the spinal cord which may go to the extent of destroying nerve cells. When this happens it is likely to cause paralysis, although this complication does not always follow.

The epidemic of 1916 had the effect of stimulating research into the cause and treatment of infantile paralysis. In consequence, today the chances of complete recovery are much better than ever before.

If the disease is recognized early enough, the use of serum from the blood of persons who have recovered often proves beneficial. In any event, it is essential for effective treatment that every case should receive prompt diagnosis and care.

To restore crippled limbs and usefulness and prevent permanent deformity after an attack of this disease, a careful system of exercising must be pursued. Ordinarily this work is best done in the patient's own home by the parents. Trained supervision is necessary, of course, as too early or too strenuous efforts may do more harm than good. But the patience and loving care of members of the child's family are invaluable in carrying on the routine. It is remarkable what good results, even in cases of long standing, may be obtained from patient manipulation and exercise of affected muscles.

It seems to be well demonstrated that the disease is spread by people rather than by things. Children should be kept away from persons who are in contact with patients, as well as from the patients themselves.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Descartes, Versatile Genius.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Rene Descartes is one of those bi-partite geniuses, so rare in world history. He combined the analytical power of the scientist with the intuitive gift of the philosopher. Had he never written a line of mathematics, he would be immortal as the "father of modern philosophy." Had he never penned a phrase of philosophy, he would always be remembered as the founder of the marvelous and beautiful system of solving geometry by algebra, known as analytic geometry. This honor he shares in part with Fermat, who perhaps anticipated him in the discovery. But it was Descartes who erected the method of analytic geometry into a system, and laid its deep and broad foundation. From his time until now, it has borne the name, in his honor, of cartesian geometry.

Rene Descartes was born at La Haye, Touraine, of Breton parents, on March 31, 1596. His consumptive mother died a few days after his birth; throughout his life, he was delicate and sickly. He was a precocious genius, early conscious of his own mental powers; and it is said that by his eighth year he had gained the title of "the young philosopher" from his avidity to learn and his constant questioning.

Descartes had little confidence in the methods of instruction in the schools of his day, attributing his development to the natural mental powers with which he was endowed. When he left the Jesuit college of La Fleche, he declared that he "had derived no other benefit from his studies than that of a conviction of his utter ignorance, and a profound contempt for the systems of philosophy then in vogue."

After leaving college he abandoned the study of books, seeking knowledge in travel, and "in the great book of the world." He preferred to seek the truths of science, not from the schoolmen, but from the operations of his own mind.

For a time, he lived the life of a gentleman of leisure; and even served in the armies of Maurice of Nassau, Tilly and Buquoy. At the age of thirty-three he went to Holland and devoted himself to quiet and philosophic meditation. After eight years of intensive reflection, he brought out the small, but important treatise, "Discourse on Method." This was followed by his "Meditations," and the two works made him famous throughout Europe.

Descartes invoked reason for the solution of problems of philosophy. He stands at the other end of the scale from Bacon. While Bacon is regarded as the master of induction, Descartes is preeminent as a master of education. This was a mark of the mathematical bent of his mind.

The two main tenets of his philosophical system are: "I think, therefore I am," and the principle that all clear and distant ideas are true, which he terms "the foundation of all science, the rule and measure of truth."

In several branches of science, Descartes showed the workings of a great mind, notably in mathematics, physics and physiology. The foundation of cartesian geometry is laid down in his suggestive work, "La Geometrie," published in 1637. Less than a year before his death he was summoned to Sweden by Queen Christina. Following his death on February 11, 1650, he was buried in Stockholm; but his remains were subsequently removed to Paris. His name and fame are among the great glories of France. — Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Two Ohio Men Saved Lincoln in 1864.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Two Ohio men saved Lincoln from defeat in 1864. It is true that the Vicksburg and Gettysburg victories had inspired the North, but the South continued to maintain its armies, and after three long years of fighting with the war costing the government $3,000,000 a day, the end not in sight, as the preparations for the national political campaign were made. Heavy drafts were evidently necessary to maintain the thinning ranks of the union army.

There was no time between January 1, and September, that year, in the opinion of good judges, when McClellan would not have defeated Mr. Lincoln. The latter wrote his friends in this period showing that he clearly feared that he would be retired. The president realized that he must be saved, if he was saved at all, by the union army.

It has been said that two speeches made in September turned the election campaign and saved the administration. One was made by General Sherman and the other by General Sheridan, two Ohio generals in command in the war. Sherman's speech was made on September 3. It is in the form of a dispatch to Washington, and read: "Atlanta is ours, and fairly won."

Sheridan's speech was made in a dispatch to Washington, sent out of the Shenandoah valley on September 19, and it read: "We have just sent them—the confederates—flying through Winchester, and we are after them tomorrow."

These were the first clear notes of victory for the union from the first day of 1864 until the opening of September, calculated to inspire a loyal people of the country with a sense of confidence in the administration of Mr. Lincoln, and hope in the success of the war under him. That these two victories had a great effect upon the result of the presidential election that year none who were in a position to know the political situation have any doubt.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Feb. 10—Recently my wife and I made a brief sentimental journey to Cincinnati, the city from whence we came to New York twenty years ago. We stopped at the Sinton where we spent our three-day honeymoon, revisited scenes we knew well, mingled with old friends.

So many things happen to a people and a city in a span of twenty years. Where once the Emery arcade with its jinkle-jumble of cubicle shops sliced through a block there stands a fifty-some storied campanile housing two huge department stores, a mammoth hotel and myriad lesser enterprises.

The sluggish canal whose network of foot bridges led to that beer-sipping Elysium, known as "Over-the-Rhine," has flowered into a sweeping boulevard spinning with motor traffic. Only Jimmy Widemeyer remains. Jimmy, the "millionaire newsboy," who sings of disaster on a Fountain Square corner.

Cincinnati is a boss-ridden city that threw off its yoke and has, so it seems to me, taken its place in the sun and deservedly won the right to its Middle West sobriquet—"The Queen City." It is hallowed for me with tender sentimentalities.

There I went as a wide-eyed, gar-mouthed country boy agape with yokel bewilderment. There as a $30 a week obscurity on the outer rim of the copy desk I led my small-town sweetheart to the altar. There I found some of the most loyal friendships I have ever known.

Cincinnati has a warming hospitable charm seeping doubtless across the shimmering Ohio from the blue-grassed dells of "Ole Kaintuck" stretching so peacefully and pleasantly on yonder side of the river. People appear so glad to see you that you go about with a queer little choke.

Most of the joyous, care-free gazetteers I knew are steadied by raw realities. Many heads are thatched with snows of passing winters. There came sudden lulls when our eyes brimmed and which we turned off with gusts of delirious laughter. Laughter through the teeth.

• • •

I have a pardonable pride in the rise of that old newspaper gang to eminence. There is that former rollicking flaneur, Russ Wilson—he of the gaudy straw hatbands—now the austere and honorable Russell Wilson, mayor of Cincinnati and headed for the United States senate. Frank Rostock, erstwhile sporting editor who gnashed his teeth and tore up telephone books when the Reds lost, now president and editor of the amazingly successful paper on which we worked. Alfred Segal whose ringing editorials have overthrown local corrupt governments, but prefers to be known as a reporter. So many more—Roy Howard, Ray Long, Phil Simms, Bill Kramer, H. T. Webster, H. W. Brown, Bob Brinkerhoff, Bill Culkins, Eugene Walter, Marlen E. Pew, Ben Mulford, Jr., Milton Bronner. And so on and on.

• • •

At the Sinton, John Horgan, the resplendent day clerk in my time and now general manager and even more resplendent, touched off my vanity by having a silver engraved plate tacked to the door of the suite reading: "This suite is occupied by O. O. McIntyre." Above a similar plate honored Admiral Byrd. Some one observed to Lloyd Scholl, one of our gang and now energetic manager of the local Western Union: "Two birds in one cage!"

"Yeah," replied Scholl, "an eagle and a cuckoo!"

• • •

Edgar Guest, Detroit poet, happened to be in town and accompanied me to a haunt of our old newspaper crew. It may my first appearance in years and the reception, if I do say it, was enthusiastic. There were embraces, shouts and back slaps. On the way back to our hotel Eddie remarked: "People can't be that glad to see any one." There's a sunshine poet for you!

• • •

The only sad note to my trip was that due to my short stay I did not get around to the ballwick of my old cronies of the composing room—Eddie Craig, Paul Breedon, Rigge, Curry and others. They saved me from many breakfastless Monday mornings.

• • •

I confess the conceit over by reception was slightly punctured at the depot homeward bound. In the waiting-room a beautiful lady rushed up, kissed me, pinned a rose to my lapel and exclaimed: "I think you are wonderful, Heywood Broun!"—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Feb. 10—Perhaps you thought your Uncle Sam was a bit extravagant for these depressed times when you read the other day that he had spent $1,800,000 for an American embassy in Berlin.

That was the price paid for the Bluecher palace, located at the head of Unter den Linden in the center of the city, and over which Ambassador Sackett is to preside.

Lot of money to pay for an ambassador's residence, you may have thought.

As a matter of fact, only a small part of the Bluecher palace will be allotted to the American ambassador for living quarters. An embassy—certainly this one in Berlin—is more than a place where brilliant social functions are given. Probably it more closely resembles a small office building.

For in the American embassy office space must be provided for a personnel of 135.

• • •

There are offices for the entire American diplomatic staff, numbering thirty-one, the entire consular staff, numbering fifty-three, the members of the American military attache's staff, twelve; naval attache's staff, seven; commercial attache's staff, twenty-eight; two treasury department representatives, a public health surgeon, and a labor department adviser.

Ambassador Sackett now rents a residence in Berlin for which he personally pays $12,000, and toward this he is given a rent allowance of $3,000.

The state department estimates that the government is now paying a total of $32,400 in rent annually for embassy offices in Berlin.

A conservative value of the building alone on the Bluecher property is placed at $700 a square foot. The net cost of the land works out at $16.40 a square foot. A square foot of similar property in Washington, a city of considerably smaller size than Berlin, would cost $50, it is estimated.

• • •

For the location of the new embassy is regarded as the center of Berlin. It has two frontages: one looks out on the Central park, the other faces Pariser Platz, across which is located the French embassy. The British embassy and the German foreign office are located around the corner on Wilhelm Strasse. The rear joins the government gardens behind the president's palace.

The American government regards with favor such purchases in the larger capitals of western Europe. In Paris, a site has been acquired for an office building in the Place de la Concorde.

These large capitals were selected because they are centers through which most American travelers pass, and because of our vast business commitments there.

It has been variously estimated that investments in Germany of American capital now total as high as $12,000,000,000. The convenience to an American traveler in finding all his officials centralized in one building instead of being scattered in various parts of the city is the government's expressed goal.

East Side Residents Ask About New Fire Station

Funds for Upkeep, Not Cost of Construction, Prevents Extension of System, Council Tells Delegation at Meeting; Recommendation Already Made.

...f operating and maintaining the east side fire department, not the cost of its construction, is preventing the city from improving its firefighting facilities, Councilman W. G. Slack told a delegation of East Side residents last night.

...ion from the east section of the city appeared in council to ask what had become of plans for an east side department presented nearly two years ago.

...y barely can afford to maintain the present three departments, Councilman Slack explained. An additional department with six more men whose salaries would amount to $7,500 a year. In addition there would be the cost of maintaining equipment.

James O'Dowd, one of the delegation, stated that it took 20 minutes for the fire department to answer a recent east side call. Councilman Slack recalled the incident and explained that company No 1, which ordinarily would have answered the call, was in the north section of the city on another fire, and that company No. 3 on Mark street, which answered the call on the second alarm, was delayed by trains.

Councilmen explained that they were heartily in favor of establishing another department in the east side if finances to run the station became available. Safety Director T. E. Sonnanstine pointed out that Fire Chief T. J. McFarland has recommended an east side station for several years.

The matter was taken under advisement.

Spring frocks show a feminine grace that is intensely flattering. This model places its flares on bodice, sleeve and skirt in a delightful manner. Especially noteworthy is the treatment of the collar which ends at the left shoulder and is replaced by a soft bow of the fabric. Three quarter sleeves are very popular. The frock opens in coat fashion, and is well adapted for maternity use.

Pattern 2086 may be fashioned of satin, flat crepe or triple georgette. A solid color or a print will make up with equal smartness.

CITY SCHOOLS CLOSE MAY 29 THIS YEAR

Elimination of Easter Vacation and Early Opening Date Responsible.

Marion public schools will close Friday, May 29, for summer vacation, George A. Bowman, superintendent, announced today.

This is the earliest closing date in several years, but is not unusual, Mr. Bowman said. School opened a week earlier this term than last, and there will be no week of spring vacation as in former years.

Instead of the one week at Easter, the students will be dismissed for Good Friday and Easter Monday, returning to school on Tuesday, April 7. School convened on Monday, Sept. 8, this term and last term did not open until Sept 16, closing for summer vacation on June 6

The present program includes the regular 36 weeks of school

Work on the Oakland Heights Junior High school is progressing rapidly enough that predictions are being made of installing furniture in the building in June. Everything will be in readiness for the opening of school in September. Superintendent Bowman already is working out the organization of a faculty and classes and is planning the distribution of students from overcrowded schools to the new building.

Receiver Discharged After Payment of Final Dividend in Receivership.

Creditors of the Lawrence Auto Supply Co. will receive a total of 17.9 per cent on their claims, the final report of Miles Longshore, receiver, approved yesterday in common pleas court, reveals.

The claims totaled $20,342.43, of which a total of $5,252.80 were paid. The first dividend amounted to 10 per cent and the second and final division totaled $2,318.05.

Receivership was asked in December, 1928, by D. Marion Lawrence and others, who also sought dissolution of the partnership.

Following the approval of the report, the court discharged the receiver.

New Trials Denied

Motions for new trials in the cases of the Merchants Transfer Co. against the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co., and Lyda Arthur against the Osgood Co. and the Alloy Cast Steel Co. were overruled by common pleas court yesterday.

In the first case a jury returned a verdict for the defendant. The case concerned a collision of a truck owned by the plaintiff with an interurban car.

The plaintiff obtained a verdict of $8,812 in the second case as the outgrowth of a collision between a car in which she was riding and one driven by an employe of the defendants.

Sale Confirmed

Sale of property involved in a foreclosure suit started by the Citizens' Building & Loan Co against J. W. Thew and others was confirmed yesterday by common pleas court. The court ordered a deed be drawn up and that the proceeds of the sale be distributed. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney J. D. Williamson.

Divorce Granted

Margie Beringer yesterday was awarded a divorce in common pleas court from Wilbur Beringer on grounds of gross neglect. She was restored to her maiden name of Margie Albert. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney L. E. Myers.

Asks Foreclosure

Judgment of $1,396.38 is asked in a foreclosure action brought by Myer H Friendly against Laura E. Collins and others yesterday in common pleas court. The law firm of Donithen & Donithen represents the plaintiff.

MIAMI, Fla.—Miami objects to crowers and crowing. A special city ordinance has been drawn up which prohibits "roosters and other crowing fowls" from being kept within 200 feet of any hotel or apartment house.

S. E. Mohat, Delco-Light Dealer, Heads District in Sales

For the second consecutive year, S. E. Mohat, local dealer for Delco Light products, has led his entire district in sales Mr Mohat finished the year with a volume of business that is contradictory to the widely-accepted "business depression."

The local dealer found that farmers in this section of Ohio had met with some adverse weather conditions last season but that they had not lost sight of other seasons which were to follow and that they were in the market for improvements in view of making 1931 successful for this agricultural section

"It took digging to get business," Mr Mohat said, "but digging unearthed business."

Mr. Mohat started the year of 1931 under Dayton district, but with the establishment of a distributorship in Dayton and the creation of a branch office at Mansfield, Mr. Mohat's territory came under the new district. The change made no difference with the operation of Mr. Mohat's territory, however

Complete modernization is offered the rural and suburban home by Mr Mohat Delco-Light plants take electricity to homes beyond the power lines, taking light and power for residence and farm uses.

Delco water systems place running water under pressure at the call of homes out of reach of city mains. The country home can have kitchen sinks, lawn sprinklers, garden hose to frustrate drought, bathrooms and plenty of water around the farm buildings with automatic equipment freeing the family from pump handle drudgery.

Delco gas is an economical gas service for homes in rural sections. Its operation is automatic and the service rendered is equal to that of city gas. It makes running hot water possible in the country and suburban household Blue hot flame is available at the scratch of a match for the kitchen, radiant heaters, hot water tanks and other places where dependable heat is needed.

Mr. Mohat is looking forward to 1931 as a good year for his business because he believes that it will be a good year for other enterprises around Marion. The optimism of the farmers will be reflected in the city, the Delco-Light man believes.

The New Way Doctors Use For Fat

A Simple Gland Food

Modern doctors no longer advise starvation diet to the over-fat. Nor drugs to attack the fat. Science has found that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. Thus comes a scant supply of a secretion which largely controls nutrition. Too much food goes to fat, too little to fuel and energy.

Doctors the world over now supply that lack, with the very factor long employed in Marmola prescription tablets.

Marmola is prepared by a famous medical laboratory, to supply the right factors at a low cost so all may have the benefit. People have used it for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and multitudes have thus attained the normal figures all desire.

No secrets about it. A book in each box gives the formula and tells you how and why it acts. As the pounds go, there comes new joy in living. Just because the body gets a factor that it needs.

Marmola costs only $1 a box at your drug store. Go get it and watch the results. Do that in justice to yourself. Do it because so many folks around you have benefited by it. Then tell others who need this help. Go start today.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

By HERBERT ADAMS

(Copyright, 1930, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

CHAPTER 12

The Inquest Opens

It was Evelyn who broke the awkward tension produced by Stirling's strange attitude.

"Don't we talk of something more cheerful?" she asked. "If it must be crime, perhaps Mr. Haswell will tell us about some of his cases."

Jimmie, not given to discussing his exploits, related an instance where Scotland Yard's ingenuity had beaten him to a solution of a mystery. He praised its detectives and said that it would be a good idea to let first offenders see the whole organization for detecting criminals.

"Delightful idea," sneered Stirling. "Would-be criminals conducted through Scotland Yard. Might help them a lot. No doubt it is clever to catch old offenders. One might still do a first crime and get away with it."

Again there was uncanny silence. Evelyn shivered slightly. "Shall we go in?" she asked. "It's getting chilly."

As they moved toward the house, Jimmie slipped to Marjorie's side. "This is a trying time for you," he said gently, "but don't worry too much. The truth will be discovered."

"Then they prove Joe Allen did it?"

To Jimmie the form of the whispered question sounded strange. She did not ask if Allen committed the crime, but if it could be brought home to him. Was it tense eagerness for proof? Or could it be that other fears or something approaching knowledge would let her sacrifice the innocent rather than face a dread alternative?

"If he did it," answered Jimmie, "he is not likely to escape. Not one murderer in 50 does."

The girl shivered, though it was a warm night.

"Your sister said you had not been sleeping," he went on. "Why don't you get a sedative from the doctor?" She made no answer, and he added, "Have you seen Dr. Netherton today?"

"No."

"His mother said he was busy. I suppose he couldn't get over this evening?"

"We did not ask him."

So Bill Netherton had not been asked. This to Jimmie proved they were not openly lovers, or he would have come without being asked. If they were lovers in secret, they might wish to keep apart until Richmond's suspicions were lulled. Jimmie knew there must be something hidden, but it baffled him. Why had Stirling come to the house? How was he concerned?

The dark-eyed Janet served them coffee and cakes in what was still called the young ladies' room. Stirling suggested playing cards, but the idea was not much liked, and when Duckworth declined to sing, all seemed to agree that music and mirth would hardly be seemly in the house of sorrow. Then Jimmy had a happy thought. He turned to Duckworth.

"Is it as easy for singers to get engagements today as it was in the days before the movies and other modern amusement virtually eliminated the concert halls?" he asked.

Duckworth, without directly answering the question, pointed to the modern demand that variety programs include two or three good singers. "Listeners demand it," he added.

"Speaking of listeners," said Donald, "how does the radio affect you?"

"Badly. The broadcasters hire a dozen artists and put hundreds out of employment."

"How about the graphophone?" continued Jimmie.

"I hate it. There are royalties, of course, from records, but they reduce attendance at entertainments."

"I would never have one in my house," said Evelyn warmly.

"Have you ever tried one?" asked Jimmie.

"No. Aunt Annabelle would never allow it."

And so the talk went on, at least making the evening more pleasant.

When Jimmie returned with his friends to their home a message was awaiting him, left, the maid said, by a policeman on a bicycle. It was from Richmond and read:

We were right. J. A. is clear. He left the Brown Bear at 8.30 and rode straight to Beighton near Sheffield to say good-bye to a sister in service there. Arrived before 9.30. Her employer, Colonel Welsted, saw him. Offered to put him up for the night and to give him temporary job. J. A. stay. Cast-iron alibi. So we are where we were. Hope you will be able to attend inquest tomorrow. G. R.

Certainly this development made the approaching inquest more important. At any rate, by the time Monday morning arrived nearly every one present for the investigation knew of Joe Allen's alibi.

When Jimmie and Nancy Wade reached Querdling institute, where the inquest into the slaying of its donor was scheduled, the hall was crowded. Police from Bradford were directing matters, but Constable Roscoe never felt himself quite so indispensable. Audrey Winford sat with Jimmy and Nancy, whose husband had work for the day and could not attend.

Nine men were on the jury—three farmers, two private residents and four shopkeepers—and three women, one being hostess at the Brown Bear. They were sworn, taken to see the body and with solemn faces filed back and took their seats.

Dr. Burbeck, the middle-aged coroner for the district, after a few preliminary remarks called Evelyn Blake as the first witness. Jimmie thought that Richmond, who was near the coroner's table, had some reason for the choice.

Evelyn, pale and distressed tried to steady her voice and answer without nervousness. After giving Miss Querding's name and age, she said that she, her sister, and her brother, in London, were the only living relations. She told of her aunt's habit of sitting in the Dutch garden and explained, so far as she knew, how each member of the household was employed on the night of the tragedy. As before, she stated she was in the house with Mr. Duckworth, when Marjorie brought the news. There was only one inquiry that hinted any particular line of thought in the coroner's mind.

"You are engaged to be married to Mr. Duckworth?"

"I am."

"Is your sister, Miss Marjorie Blake, engaged or is there any engagement pending?"

There was perhaps a moment of hesitation, but the answer "No" was quite firm.

"Now, I must ask you this. Did you leave that sitting-room or approach your aunt while she was in that garden?"

"I did not."

"Thank you. That is all."

Evelyn left the box and resumed her seat between Duckworth and Marjorie some distance from Jimmie and his friends.

Henry Roscoe, the next witness, was impressed by the importance of his role. He told the time he was called to Merrow Craig where he found that the body had been taken into the house. He produced a plan of the property and a photograph of the Dutch garden, with its unbroken companion still in position.

As the exhibits were handed to the jury Dr. Burbeck asked the fallen by accident.

constable if the figure could have

"No sir. It couldn't. The wall it stood on had a level surface and the figure was well balanced."

Roscoe had seen the two images before and declared they were identical.

"Now look at this photograph," the coroner directed, handing him a picture of the unbroken figure. "Suppose there were a flaw in the stone of one or both of those legs, might not the figure topple over by its own weight?"

Roscoe looked at the figure and scratched his head doubtfully. There was a tense silence in court. Perhaps after all the mishap had a perfectly natural explanation.

To Be Continued.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Tuesday, and I let Jubilee down wondering what was going to happen today. My ant is still sore, mostly at me, from falling down on the ice whilst trying to get the Lost Bag of Tripe's hat out of the tree and nearly busted her stummick, and then when she was going in the house she fell and nearly busted the other side of herself, and now the house is full of the smell of snarky.

My mother told me my ant would limp if she knowed how, but she says that anyone that has got as many places bumped as my ant has would have to have as many legs as a thousand legged worm to do a good job of limping. I would like to see a thousand legged worm limping, but I would rather see and and its girl dancing. I bet that would be funny.

The bunch was in the barn when I got out there with my milk pail and Jubilee, and when I told them how lame my ant was from slapping the ground with her stummick and the rest of her and then bumping the steps with what was left, and Younias told Feeble that she thought she must of fell on purpose at the steps so as to make my ant take another tumble, and they said to let's skeem up something on my ant to have some more fun out of her and I told them I wouldn't do it. I said that any thing that happened to her accidentally would be all right, but I wasn't going to frame up my own people. I wasn't the Lost Bag of Tripe. Then the Lost Bag of Tripe made a fist and stuck out his jaw and asted me if I meant it, and when I stood up against him and said I certainly did, he said it was a good thing I did because he didn't take any fooling. Then they all began to ride me and the Lost Bag of Tripe strutted around with his chest out whilst I sot down and began to milk again, and when he got back of the cow I gave her a dig in her tender place and she lammed out so sudden with her foot that it brushed his coattail and almost scairt him to death, and he snuck over and backed up to the feed box and put his hands up on it and jumped up to sit on it, but Banty was standing at the corner of it and he hooked his feet behind the Lost Bag of Tripe's feet while they were in the air and swung them out so that he missed the box and sot on the floor so hard that both of the cows turned their heads and looked at him. He was still setting on the floor when I took the milk in to strain it.

Mush can't work much with his dump cart in cold weather and had got a lay-off and was out in the schoolyard bent over nailing a board on the back fence, and Feeble said she never had her air rifle when she needed it. She has got such a mean disposition that I can't help liking her.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Question Puzzles the Farmhouse Folks.

"THE question, 'Now, why?' uttered tensely by my father at the end of his analysis of the getaway of the burglars, outlined to him over the telephone by Mr. Corwin, the bank president, gave me a creepy little feeling that appeared unjustified by the facts we knew. The men who, we thought, were hunting Marion's lock-box with its secret compartment and unknown contents, had attempted an entrance to the bank, had been frightened away by the preparations made on account of my father's warning, and had fled in their big blue sedan, toward North Haven, the island connected with Sag Harbor only by a narrow bridge, and which could not but prove a cul-de-sac for them.

There could be but one result of their unwise or forced choice of direction. They would soon be captured, though there might be lives lost in the encounter between them and the representatives of the law. Mr. Corwin would telephone us developments, for which, of course, we would wait. But there seemed to be no reason for the apprehension which seemed to enwrap me as with a chilly fog.

"It's rather a far fetched theory," Harry Underwood began, hesitatingly and my father shrieked facing him.

"Your far fetched theories have been known to get results," he said, dryly. "Let's hear it."

Harry's Theory

"They may have a hide-away on North Haven," Harry said. "There are several places over there in the hands of caretakers, and their ilk have been found suitable before this. They may have been able to cache the car, change their appearance and double back in another one, after they've led the pursuing party a dance along those winding roads. If once they can get back over the bridge, they'll be comparatively safe, for everybody will be looking for a big blue sedan."

"Your words sure listen wise to me, lad," Dicky drawled approvingly.

"So wise," my father said approvingly, "that I'm going to telephone Corwin about them."

He went to the telephone in the hall, and we heard him wrestling at first temperately, then wrathfully, with the operator in an attempt to get into communication with the bank. When he came out upon the veranda again he was wiping his forehead, although the early morning breeze was cool, and his voice held an edge of exasperation.

"The operator says," he reported, "that someone has left the receiver off the hook at the bank, and that it is impossible to connect us for awhile. And, of course, I cannot ask the girl for information."

"She probably knows all there is to know at that," Dicky said, "and is bursting to impart it. But of course, it wouldn't be cricket to tempt her."

"Will the girl call you back when the receiver is replaced?" Lillian asked.

"She promised to do so," my father said glumly. "I suppose Corwin took it off himself, because by now the grapevine telegraph has gotten busy, and probably everybody in the village is ringing the bank to find out--"

He paused and Dicky finished with a quotation.

"'What's all the shoutin' for?'"

"Exactly," my father said, drawing a chair to the veranda rail and settling down in it. "Well, there's nothing to be done now, except to wait for Corwin's telephone call."

Armed For Emergency

"A word with you, my lad," he said to Dicky, with affected solemnity, and the two men walked into the hall, where we could hear them in brief murmured colloquy. Then Dicky came back and Harry Underwood went up the stairs. When he returned, within five minutes, Dicky slipped out and went upstairs, coming back as quickly. Lillian pinched my arm, and then spoke with a provocative drawling accent:

"It's sweet of you boys to get properly heeled, but why the mystery? Do you think Madge and I are afraid of the little porguns?"

"And that's what a man gets for trying to play the chivalry racket and protect his women folk from sordid facts," Dicky declaimed, but nobody paid any attention to his rhetorical effort, for the telephone was ringing again, and my father hastened to answer it, while the rest of us went into the process popularly known as "holding one's breath."

"Yes, yes," my father was saying. "Yes, Corwin, this is Spencer. What's that? Yes, I've been trying to get you for some time, but the operator said the receiver was off the hook. Yes, I thought that must be it. What's your news?"

We had heard Mr. Corwin's voice over the wire, but could not distinguish the words. Now there was sudden silence, and when the voice began again it was halting and its tones almost inaudible.

My father listened for a moment then he gave an excited and awed exclamation, very unlike him. When Mr. Corwin's voice ceased, he spoke in a solemn, subdued voice.

"Well, that's that, the poor devils, but there's no disguising the fact that it's a relief. Call on me for whatever you want."

He hung up the receiver and came back to us slowly, as one walks in the presence of death.

Prize Butter A Test of Food Stores

Test a food store by the butter it sells and you won't go far wrong. The butter you can judge in several ways. The sure way is by the verdicts of the butter makers' own jury. These verdicts are rendered at the butter makers' conventions, state and national.

At the Iowa convention in Waterloo four butter makers took first and second prizes among 217 entries in the senior and junior contests. Their butter is to be found only in A&P stores.

The National Convention in Minneapolis gave its highest prize—the grand sweepstakes—to W. F. Wargowsky, manager of the Farmers' Co-operative Creamery Company in Dyeden, Iowa.
